Welcome to the first issue of the ICDC newsletter for the 2011/2012 academic year. There are some changes regarding the content of the newsletter which will be implemented starting this issue. First, the newsletter will now be published bi-annually instead of quarterly. This gives us more time to produce higher-quality articles that will be more relevant to you. Second, the section on “Featured Faculty” will be replaced by articles that are more career-related. This new section will be called “Featured Company” and will give you a snapshot of the company and its internship and graduate management trainee programs.

In addition, the ICDC has recently reactivated the local chapters of the International Honor Society of Beta Gamma Sigma (BGS) and the Society for Advancement of Management (SAM), which will be under the umbrella of Professional Clubs. A regular section will be devoted to sharing updates, developments and activities of these two clubs. Lastly, a new section on testimonials will be added to showcase the career achievements of our students and alumni and how ICDC has played a role in their success.

With the restructuring of the ICDC newsletter, I am sure that it will keep you wanting for more. As always, I wish you a happy and enjoyable reading experience.

Cordially,

Amina El Marzak

JOB FAIR 2012

ICDC will be organizing the 3rd Annual Job Fair which will be held on March 27 at Al Masaood building. Top multinational companies, government and semi-government agencies will be invited to participate in this half-day event.

This year’s job fair will have a different format than in previous years. Students who are in their junior and senior year must attend a mandatory workshop on CV and cover letter writing, as well as a mock interview session. Companies participating in this event will be asked not only to meet and interview students in their respective booths but also to conduct short presentations on career-related topics. This will make the event a total learning experience for all attendees and give students a better idea of what they want to do.

Participation of both UD students and alumni is highly encouraged as the job fair provides a venue where you can explore different options and career paths, learn about potential internship opportunities, discuss available positions, submit your resume to company representatives, obtain valuable interview and job search strategies from seasoned professionals and develop a network of contacts. All these benefits are more than enough reason for you to mark your calendars on March 27!

For more information, please check the UD website and your UD mail. You may also email rsanjose@ud.ac.ae or icdc@ud.ac.ae for details.
Moustafa Al Amassy:
It was February 2011 when I first received an email from the ICDC regarding a training experience with Commercial Bank International (CBI). At first, I did not give much attention to the email, but then I said to myself, why not? I sent my CV and the following day I received a call from CBI inviting me to start with the training program immediately. My training was for 4 weeks but I stayed on for 8 weeks. I preferred to stay and learn even though I was not receiving any salary. on the last day of training, I was approached by the head of HR who told me that she is in need of an extra employee in the team and I was very suitable for the position since I was already trained for 2 months and got the hang of how things worked in their department.

When the internship program was offered at UD, I realized that the best place for me to have it was at CBI as I had previous training experience with them. After my internship I was offered a full-time job at CBI. My heartfelt thanks go to Ms. Amina and her ICDC team for facilitating my internship at CBI. Mrs. Redempla was always there whenever I needed anything. The ICDC team as a whole was very helpful and supportive of my career plans from my initial training with CBI until now. For this, I am grateful!

UD is Champion for Unilever’s 1st Edition of “The Ideatrophy” Business Plan Competition

Previously launched in Egypt and Saudi Arabia, Unilever’s “The Ideatrophy” business plan competition is on its first edition here in the UAE with UD, AUD and AUS competing for the top slot. Our team composed of Urwa and Hooria Tariq and Hend Kamali bested 4 other teams to win the competition with prizes including an Ipad for each member, a big basket filled with Unilever products and an all expense paid trip to London.

Congratulations!
